"Files. roaches. and other vermin. by coming in contact with infected secretions, may possibly convey them to our food, and thus directly bring about the development of the disease.

"Therefore, eliminate insects. Street and house dust bears a definite relation to the spread of many infections, and it is not unreasonable to presume that it may be a factor in the dissemination of infantile paralysis. Maintain strict cleaniliness of streets, yards, and alieys in order to prevent the breeding of insects and other vermin.

"See that all garbage and waste are properly cared for and collected frequently. Guard all food supplies, especially milk and other perishable products.

Keep Children Apart. "Digestive troubles of children, aris-ng from the indigestion of food of questionable quality may lower re-sistance. Assemblies of children in infected locations are to be discouraged, if not actually forbidden."

In speaking of individual preventive measures it is said that a physician should be summoned at once and the health officer of the District should be notified of the disease. Hospital care is preferable, not only for the child but for the persons who live in the neighborhood.

In speaking of the care of the state. In speaking of the care of the sick child, the bulletin states that "the sick room should be well ventilated and screened.

Treatment During Illness. "Nasal and mouth secretions should be placed in paper bags and burned. The clothing of the child, the bed linen, and the excretions should be disinefeted in the same manner as for typhoid fever, that is by boiling, the long continued application of 5 per cent carbolic acid, or other well recognized disinfectant. The same is true of dishes and drinking vessels. Nurses should exercise the same procautions as regards cleanliness of hands in caring for infantile paralysis patients as for those infected with other infectious diseases." It is further stated that a strict quarantine should be maintained for a considerable period, usually from six to eight weeks, and all precaution should be maintained during this time, as a child may convey the disease to others after a lapse of several weeks.

Disinfection of the room following the recovery of the patient is also advisable. ed in the same manner as for typhoid

Wants Jolly Widow; Half Dozen Answers

NEW YORK, July 25.-Slow, quiet, and jolly widows do not seem to be so scarce as August Zernell, of Cleveland, believed when he wrote to Mayor Seger, of Passale, to find him one. Despite their slowness, half a dozen have written to the mayor recommending themselves to

One wrote from New York, one from Jersey City, one from New Haven, one from Stamford, and two, including "Lonesome Florence," from Newark.

lows:

"Dear Mr. Mayor: I am a widow and childless. I am slow, quiet, jolly, and fond of sports, including baseball, golf and tennis, and I can dance the latest steps. Please let me come to see you, that you may know that I will make a good wife for Mr. Zernell. I am twenty-three years old. Maybe Mr. Zernell (who proclaimed his hatred of old maids) was stung by an old maid. I was stung by my first husband, but, poor fellow, he is dead now. Now don't forget to answer me.

"A young widow looking for a faithful husband.
"LONESOME FLORENCE." "LONESOME FLORENCE."

The mayor has no intention of invitgin "Lonesome Florence" to call. She didn't give her address, anyhow. He will content himself with forwarding her letter to Zernell, and will not even call attention to the apparently fatal mistake her first husband made, in stinging her.

CURED OF ANTHRAX BY "BRANDING IRON"

RIVERHEAD, L. I., July 25.— Thanks to an old-fashioned cauterizexander Waukenski has recovered from anthrax, the disease which proved fatal last winter to George F. Stackpole, In contrast to Mr. Stackpole, who kept ap a cheerful conversation with his family and reporters to the day of his death, Waukenski had small hope of recovery. His physician. Dr. Allen G. Terrell, remembering that serum treatment had failed with Mr. Stackpole, borrowed the cauterizing iron.

"The remedy was a harsh one, but the exigencies of the case warranted its use," said Dr. Terrell today. "I cauterized the postules good and deep three times and the patient responded nicely to the treatment. Today he is completely cured."

Waupenski, who went back to his farm work today, declared that almost anybody would respond to the "brandsing iron" treetment. ed fatal last winter to George
